PULA..... because Pula is more!

Pula, known by its Latin name Pietas Iulia, lies on the very south of the Istrian peninsula in a well-protected bay. It is a city with numerous remains from ancient times, where nearly every stone has a story to tell. It is perfectly logical since the early beginnings of Pula date back three millennia. If you visit Pula, you will hear the story of mythical Argonauts, Romans, Venetians, Franks and the Austro-Hungarian period. One of the sights you shouldn't miss in Pula is the Arena, magnificent Roman amphitheater, sixth by size in the world, and surely one of the most beautiful. Some of the famous singers who performed on the beautiful stage of the amphitheater under the stars are Plácido Domingo, Andrea Bocelli, Pavarotti, Carreras, as well as Sting, Joe Cooker....

When in Pula, be sure to visit one of the beautifully arranged parks or simply take a walk along the sea, on the sunny promenade since Pula has almost three thousand sunshine hours in a year. As a tourist center, Pula offers its guests a great number of cultural and entertainment events, and the city that has hosted the national film festival for over five decades now has a new cinema. So, take a look inside or just stop at one of the cafés in the very center, at Giardini and feel the pulse of the city.

Don't miss "Lighting Giants", Pula's new attraction, a unique project in the world of lighting cranes of an operating shipyard. "Lighting Giants" have a sophisticated remote control system of lighting and scenography, and can be illuminated with 16 thousand different color combinations. You can enjoy this spectacular show and lighting display every evening. This magnificent light show, lasting 15 minutes, can be seen after dark on the hour!

Most Pula hotels are situated within reach, surrounded by crystal clear sea and wonderful woods. Hotel services and facilities will surely satisfy even the most hard to please guest. Pula is a city famed for its restaurants offering Istrian delicacies, where you can choose between seafood specialties or traditional dishes of the Istrian interior. And the food will be even tastier accompanied by fine wine, which Istria is truly famous for.

Visit Pula, because Pula is more.
